A vaudeville act in "One", or to the layman, an act in a street drop, with a semblance of a plot, is quite a rarity even in these days of progressive vaudeville. The "Baldon comedy three" will come to the Pavilion to-day for the last three days of the week. An excellent recommendation for this act is that it is owned, controlled and produced by Janette & Ramsey, who also own and control Don Ramsey's Harmonists. Every patron of the Pavilion will remember the Harmonists as they were one of the best acts ever seen at the Pavilion. Two other acts, both of which are said to be good, will make up the program of three acts.

Emmett's Presence of Mind.

A story is told of Robert Emmet which proves his secretive power and resolution. He was fond of studying chemistry, and one night, after the family had gone to bed, he swallowed a large quantity of corrosive sublimate in mistake for some acid cooling powder. He immediately discovered his mistake and knew that death must shortly ensue unless he instantly swallowed the only antidote, chalk. Timid men would have torn at the bell, roused all the family and sent for a stomach pump. Emmet called no one, made no noise, but, stealing down stairs and unlocking the front door, went into the stable, scraped some chalk which he knew to be there and took sufficient doses of it to neutralize the poison.

Do These Values Interest You?

In closing out our winter stock, we find we have left about twenty Wool Dresses in different styles. These are odd Dresses, hardly two of a kind, and are those left from our fall and winter stock, and we are putting prices on them so small that you cannot afford to buy a cotton dress in the place of one of these. If you want a medium or light weight wool dress, just look these values over, and if you do not say that they are the best values you have ever seen we will not ask you to buy.

LADIES' WOOL DRESSES.

When you can buy a good wool dress, made from panama serges and novelty goods for less than you can buy the material that is in them for, can you afford to let the value pass?

These dresses are the season's best models, left from our large stock of these dresses and ranging in price from $10.00 to $18.00.

Now to close out the lot at once, to make room for our large spring line, we are going to give you your choice of these values at the small price of $5.00.

If you want a good wool dress you cannot wait and expect to get one of these unless you act at once.

At $5.00 are three ladies' velvet dresses that are an extra good value. These are our season's best values, that sold for $15.00. To close at $5.00.

At one half price a few odd silk dresses in the late fall and winter styles, not much different than the spring models, but are odd dresses. To close at half price.

LADIES' WOOL DRESSES.

Any lady needs a good wool dress for the cool summer days, and when you can get a good dress for less than the cloth would cost, you cannot afford to go without one.

Just step in and look over these values and then, see how much you would have to pay for the goods in them alone.

When you can buy a wool dress that was a good value at $18.00 at the small price of $5.00, it does not pay you to spend your time looking up goods to make them, or to say nothing about getting them made up. At $5.00 are some extra values in panama and serges, that are good values at $10.00 and $18.00.

Think of the price, only $5.00. It would cost you most double the price to get them made.

We have just received an extra value in a ladies' silk foulard dress, low neck and short sleeve, the new thing. They are well made and only $10.00 each.

CHILDREN'S COTTON DRESSES.

The line of children's dresses we are showing this spring are different than we ever have shown. The cloths are better and they are made up more as you would make them at home, only they have that touch of finish that is hard to get in home made makes.

The line of little percale dresses in children's sizes at 50c are exceptionally good. In the larger sizes, from 6 to 14 years, you will find the best assortment of popular, fine fitting dresses we have ever shown. These are graded in price according to the size. The 5 year's size cost $1.00 and the 12 and 14 cost $1.25.

At $1.50 are a number of styles that are made of gingham, and percale. These have a style and finish that will surely appeal to you as the best you have ever seen.

From $1.00 to $3.00 are some very good values in the large sizes such as 12 and 14 years.

AMBASSADORS.

They Enjoy Some Curious Privileges at European Courts.

In the popular mind—the American mind at least—there is very little difference between an ambassador and a minister, but the former is entitled to very many privileges abroad that are denied to a mere envoy.

For instance, one curious privilege of an ambassador is that he, and he alone, when dismissed, may turn his back to the sovereign to whose court he is accredited. The mode of procedure, generally speaking, is as follows:

When the audience is at an end the ambassador waits to be dismissed by the sovereign. When dismissed the ambassador bows, retires three paces, bows again, retires three paces, bows a third time, turns on his heels and walks to the folding doors. But when the reigning sovereign is a woman, still politer methods obtain. To turn his back would be discourteous; to walk backward would be to resign a privilege; therefore the ambassador retires sideways like a crab. He keeps one eye on the sovereign and with the other he endeavors to find the door. By this unique means he contrives to evince all politeness to the sovereign and at the same time retain one of his privileges.

Another privilege of ambassadors is the right of being ushered into the royal presence through folding doors, both of which must be flung wide for him. No one save an ambassador can claim this privilege, the most any non-ambassadorial individual can expect is that one of the doors shall be opened to him.

One privilege appertaining to the ambassador, one capable of causing great inconvenience to the ruler, is the right of demanding admission to the sovereign at any hour of day or night. This was one of the reasons why Abdul Hamid, when sultan of Turkey, opposed the raising of our mission at Constantinople to an embassy. It was decidedly inconvenient at times to see the American representative at all.

To the European the most important feature of the ambassador's makeup is his sword. There the blade of the sword is a rapier blade with the point blunted. It has been facetiously observed abroad that the use of the sword is put to in addition to its trick of tripping up its wearer is usually the harmless one of poking fires. One diplomatist was said to file his bills on his sword when it was not otherwise engaged, and for a long while it was a standing witticism of the corps diplomatique in Europe that the Russian ambassadors used their swords to file broken treaties, a circumstance that was held to account for the inordinate length of their weapons.—Harper's Weekly.

No Swelling at All.

"I see not one ripple on the water. All is calmness," said the little German lady, looking out dreamily over the quiet sea. "I had crossed the ocean when it was calm like this all the way over."

"Do you mean that there was no swell even in mid-ocean?" asked her companion, who had never crossed at all.

"No, no swelling at all," was the reply.—New York Press.
